COMMUNITY

Warner Law Gives Back - a Huge Hit

Attorney, Bobby Warner, kicked off the Warner Law Gives Back Program on August 15, 2013. This program allows Warner Law Offices to donate $100,000 dollars collectively, to 100 organizations, civic groups or individuals who actively support their community.

Warner Law gives back to Childhood Language Center

We have received well over 325 applications since the campaign has kicked off. It is so rewarding for us to see all the people in the state of West Virginia who are truly making a difference in their community. It's also a testimony that West Virginia still has the hardest working people around.

If you have applied for a donation, please bare with us as we review each and every applicant to make a decision. The deadline to apply for a donation is July 1st 2014. For more information or to apply, visit our website at: www.wvpersonalinjury.com.

Tucker's Tips

HUNT SMART AND HUNT SAFE

It is that time of year again when all of the hunters don their orange vests and head out into the woods to try to bag a buck.

Here are a few tips to keep in mind:

1. Always tell someone where you will be hunting and stick to the plan.
2. Avoid hunting alone. If you do, tell someone where you'll be.
3. Check the weather before going into the woods and dress properly & be prepared for worse possible conditions.
4. Review the state rules and regulations before any hunt.
5. Check hunting equipment before and after each outing & maintain it properly. Point the muzzle in a safe direction.
6. Always wear a safety belt or harness while in a tree stand.
7. Try to remain motionless, especially if you spot an approaching deer.
8. Always keep your finger outside the trigger guard until you're ready to shoot
9. Identify your target before shooting. Know your surroundings.
10. Be safe, and remember accidents can happen so have a plan in place.

ON THE ROAD

Winter Weather Is Here West Virginia Car Accident Lawyers

Winter weather is upon us and damaged roads can be dangerous roads. Potholes, loose gravel and leftover construction debris can also leave roadways unsafe for motorists. Even when the roads are clear, defective road design, missing guard rails or improper signage can also cause serious injuries.

In any motor vehicle accident, our attorneys will carefully examine the circumstances and consider all potential sources of liability. If there is evidence that the injuries were caused or aggravated by improper care of roadways, we will help you pursue legal claims against the city or county responsible for maintaining the streets.

It is important to note that, in some cases, you may not be able to file a suit against the government for dangerous road conditions. Many municipal governments enact specific legislation to shield them from civil claims for negligence. However, if there is the potential for a viable personal injury or wrongful death claim, our attorneys will work tirelessly to pursue this claim and protect your interests.

At Warner Law Offices, we provide skilled legal representation for people injured in all types of motor vehicle accidents — including those caused by dangerous roadways. We have extensive experience handling personal injury and wrongful death lawsuits for clients throughout the state.

For general information about car accidents, please visit our motor vehicle accidents information center at www.wvpersonalinjury.com. However, for specific information regarding your car accident, it is best to speak with one of our knowledgeable lawyers. We have the experience and resources needed to produce the results you deserve.

At Warner Law Offices, our attorneys represent injured drivers, miners, oil and gas workers, loggers, construction workers, and hospital patients in personal injury lawsuits and wrongful death litigation. We serve a statewide clientele on a contingent fee basis. Our past record of success enables us to commit significant investigative and forensic resources to the development and presentation of your case, including the use of pre-eminent experts whenever necessary. We also take a close and continuing interest in your physical recovery and can help you find appropriate medical treatment.

We represent residents of West Virginia in cases arising from a variety of incidents and accidents, including:

- Auto Accidents
- Dangerous Property Conditions
- Defective Products
- Employment Law
- Oil, Gas & Mining Accidents
- Nursing Home Abuse
- Personal Injuries
- Workplace Injuries / Slip and Fall
- Wrongful Death

Our offices are located at 227 Capitol St. in downtown Charleston. Validated free parking is available adjacent to our location. If you cannot come to see us, we can visit you at home or in the hospital. The sooner you contact us, the faster we can move your claims forward. For more information about Warner Law, or to discuss your concerns with a knowledgeable attorney, contact us by calling 1-866-344-4460 or 304-345-6789 today. IN THE NEWS

Congratulations! Bobby Warner, 2014 Young Guns Class Sponsored by the WV Executive Magazine

Congratulations to Bobby Warner for being inducted into the 2014 Young Guns Class sponsored by the WV Executive Magazine. WV Executive Magazine established an honors program in 1999 to recognize those citizens of West Virginia who drive the success of the Mountain State. Since then, they have inducted 15 classes of West Virginia professionals into the ranks of West Virginia Executive Young Guns. These Young Guns represent West Virginia's next generation of leaders who are already accomplishing great things through their careers both in the business world and in their communities.

Learn More About Bobby

Bobby Warner sees every day as an opportunity. Whether it's heading up one of the most sought-after plaintiff practices in the state, giving back to the community or spending quality time with loved ones, his recipe for success has come from determination and a mind for people.

Warner is originally from Clarksburg, WV, and grew up learning the ideals of hard work. "I was eight when I landed my first job. I worked doing chores for my grandmother," he says. "Cathryn Warner did not tolerate substandard effort and had no qualms about withholding your pay until the work was done right."

Warner is grateful to a large, supportive network, especially his father. "My father was a lawyer, and I was captivated by stories about his latest case," he says. "I also admired how he was respected in our community." Warner has also had several mentors over the years, all of whom have encouraged him throughout his journey, including his middle school teacher, Phyllis Pilewski, who always told him he had a personality for the courtroom.

After graduating from law school at West Virginia University, Warner began working as an associate at Huddleston Bolen, where he was quickly thrown into the trenches under the direction of John Fowler and Mary Sanders. In 2000, he opened his own law firm, Warner Law Offices, in Charleston, WV. During the early years, Warner consulted with Wheeling-area attorney Bob Fitzsimmons on the elements for a successful practice. "Bob spent countless hours on the phone with me late at night," says Warner. "He became not only my mentor but truly one of my best friends."

Once he was established, Warner quickly found that he wanted a way to keep a heavy work load from interfering with his home life. "I don't think anyone sets out to be one of those lawyers who is defined by their work as the totality of their adult life, but the demands of law can easily become all-consuming if you allow it," he says. "The first step for me was getting past the dogma that the lawyer who works the most hours wins. Somewhere along the way, I realized that something had to give if I was going to live a balanced life." From there, Warner reduced the number of cases he accepted, made sure they were only of the highest quality and took on the most talented new hires. "We are only as good as those we surround ourselves with, and I am pleased to have the best," he says.

Warner Law Offices makes strides in the community beyond offering sound legal services. The firm has been consistently recognized for its charitable work, which includes a public commitment to give away $100,000 to individuals, community groups and civil organizations that are doing good work in the community. The firm also has a booster seat program to raise awareness and provide the means for child safety.

In 2010, Warner founded Beyond the Backyard, a 12,000-member kids' club that provides resources to families in an effort to encourage them to be more active and involved in outdoor activities. This came about from his own love of the outdoors, which began with his family's fly-fishing and hunting trips and continues today. Warner is a sponsored bow hunter and recently participated in an exclusive trip to a remote area of the Northwest Territories.

Working hard, prioritizing family and having a passion for outdoor activity are all traits that Warner and his wife, Michelle, strive to pass onto their three children, Jackson, Riley and Gage. "My greatest accomplishment is my family. Work is transient, success is fleeting, but your relationship with your family is forever," says Warner. "My kids don't care how much money I make, but they sure notice if I am there to watch their soccer practice. The most important thing is that I am there participating in my children's lives."
